1. The SNB station at Ceske Velenice has been reinforced with an additional 50 members and with 15 members of the People's Militia. An accurate list of all inhabitants in this area is being made, and travel there is forbidden. Travel permits are issued by the STB only to politically reliable persons and for only short periods of time. Suspect persons are subject to severe personal search at the railroad stations. The forbidden area, which covers about 3 km, is to be marked off shortly. Even local inhabitants are to be denied access to this area, and the local SNB station is to give permission only for urgent trips. Landowners are given three-month permits to work their fields, women one-year permits. Such permits may be withdrawn at any time and extension of time may be refused without reason.
2. There are three permanent controls on the road between Berg and Petrzalka, a distance of 6 km. These controls search not only vehicles but persons travelling by bicycle or on foot. Only cars with foreign registration numbers are not searched.

- 6. Since the spring of 1950 a new SNB rank has been introduced: junior sergeant (mladsi strazmistr). SNB members do not wear any insignia of rank on their uniforms.
- 7. The provincial stations of the SNB are being abolished. The regional stations will be located in the SNB district units and in the large industrial cities only. It seems that the government fears the cities more than the villages and wants to have stronger units to cope with discontented workers.
